The Cowboy's New Family

Widow Abby McDonald is pregnant with twins, suddenly homeless and has nowhere to go. When her late husband's army buddy offers her a temporary haven at his family ranch in Buffalo Gap, Abby accepts the handsome cowboy's hospitality. She knows that Cade Lebret, an honorable man with a complicated life on the Double L, is just "doing the right thing." But when a needy foster child joins their makeshift family, Abby begins to see what a kind, loving father figure Cade is. Suddenly she's dreaming of making the Lebret family ranch her home forever.

I loved the twists and turns that were woven into the plot. The author was masterful in her treatment of the 'Inner Conflict' that so many Christians struggle with. Abby and Cade both had to battle giving up their personal will in order to follow God's will and trust Him to carry them through. I also appreciated the way the character's prayers were treated simply as conversation. After all, isn't that what happens in reality? We talk to God and He talks to us. We tell him our heart's desires. He tells us His. Loved it - Well done!!!!"

Christian romance

By paula legate

I really enjoyed this Christian romance. I really admired Abby, and her faith throughout the story. Abby's husband was killed while serving in the military. She is pregnant with twins. The military has not giving her any money from the life insurance policy. She lost her job, and now she lost the home that she and her husband shared. she prayed, and prayed, and her faith remained strong. Abby is about to be homeless. She went to her husband's grave, and her husband's best friend Cade showed up. Cade was the answer to one of her prayers. He gave her a place to stay. Her faith in God was infectious. Everyone around her started praying when they didn't before. When life seemed hopeless, she encouraged her friends to pray, and give the problem to God, and have faith in God, that God would send answers. Waiting without planning is so hard for most of us. It's common to have doubts. If we have faith in God, his plans will be better than anything we could have ever planned. He takes care of his children. The romance between Abby, and Cade was slow and sweet. Abby realized the love between her, and max, her first husband, was just infatuation. She learned what true love was, when she fell in love with Cade throughout the story. I also loved the family ties weaved into the story. Cade, and his father has always had a bad relationship. Cade's father had a stroke, and can't walk, and has a hard time talking. He needs therapy to regain his motor skills. Ed doesn't even try. It was heartwarming to see him connect with Abby, and start talking more. Abby felt she was placed in the middle of two stubborn men. She was falling in love with each one, in different ways. She prayed that God would reconnect father, and son. You'll have to read and see how God worked bringing two head strong men back together.

Here is one verse that was weaved throughout the pages. In all things we have full victory through God who showed his love for us. We have trouble all around us but we are not defeated.
