Potential of Leading By Heart

By Hank Lamb

Today, when imperious Management is confused with Leadership and many "leaders" at the highest levels of business and government have thrown moral practice aside for personal power and profit, Dr. Cheshire's book is a charismatic call for an ethical rebirth of Leadership. Since completing a Master's level program he taught in 1997, with a array of stellar guests, I have followed the ideas laid out in the Quantum Civics Paradigm presented in Leading By Heart.

It is a call to arms for those chivalrous enough to place a standard higher than reward, in their lives, their work and their voluntary activities. Dr. Cheshire states the sound philosophy of doing the greatest good, at the least expense, for the greatest number of people, over the longest period, in any endeavor. Leading By Heart is also the public presentation of his theories of organizational DNA and the formula for assessing organizational potential,  $I=am^2$ . These are exciting ideas with great potential in the fields of leadership and fundraising.

The material in this book has moved me in my career and personal life, and I have been forever changed by it. Read it, use it and the world will be better for your being here. That is the promise in each of us. That is the potential of Leading By Heart.

Looking at the third sector with new eyes

By Stacy Alvord

As an Executive Director of a small non-profit Dr. Cheshire's work has given me a new perspective on my role and that of our agency in the community. His case examples provided the context needed to apply the theories presented. It is a great honor that I was able to work with Dr. Cheshire during the summer of 2003 and discuss practical applications of "Leading By Heart" to my work and my leadership style. He is truly an amazing man with a wealth of experience. This is a must read for leaders in the non profit world.

What management need to know

By Medow Vista Tree Farm

I have worked for Pride Industries for a number of years. This book helped me to understand what leadership is and I have recommended it to the President of Pride Inst.

Leadership is bringing two sides together, for the benefit of all.

Management is more than producing a product; it is knowing the strength of the employees and matching them with the jobs to be done.
